CREATION of a radio and press body to serve in an advisory capacity to Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal is under way following rejection of Mr. Forrestal's Plan for voluntary peacetime radio and press censorship by a press media committee March 29.

Representatives of radio, press and motion picture interests comprising the Media committee made it clear in a resolution presented to Secretary Forrestal that any system bearing even the slightest resemblance to censorship would fail - be unacceptable.

"We do not believe," the resolution advised, "that any type of censorship in peacetime is desirable in the public interest."

The committee did recognize the existence of a national security problem in the protection of necessary military secrecy in the fields of scientific research and development of military weapons.

A wise solution would be the re-establishment of the National Military Establishment as was suggested, but it acknowledged that this responsibility should be shared to some degree by all media of public information. The resolution recommended that nine representatives of 14 radio, press, and movie organizations be designated by the defense chiefs as a Security Advisory Council.

"We recommend," the resolution stated, "that these organizations respond and that the council be available to the Secretary for advice and discussion of the security problem from the viewpoint of the press, radio and the moving picture industry. Establishment of such continuing liaison, we believe, will be mutually helpful to the information media represented and to the Secretary of Defense."

The Security Advisory Council would consist of a representative of the NAB, National Assn. of Magazine Publishers, American So-
