

FCC praises late Frieda Hennock

Funeral services for former FCC Commissioner Frieda Hennock Simons, 55, were held last Wednesday (June 22) in Temple Sinai, Washington. Miss Hennock died Monday following an operation four days earlier to remove a brain tumor (AT DEADLINE, June 21).

Last week, the commission adopted a resolution praising Miss Hennock for her "... distinguished contribution to its [FCC] work during the challenging period of television's growth." The FCC resolution continued:

"Perhaps foremost among the endeavors for which Miss Hennock will be long remembered was her devotion and impressive championship of policies which have made possible the establishment and continuing growth of educational television . . . Gifted with a keen intellect and endowed with tireless energy, Miss Hennock ceaselessly and unflaggingly dedicated her extraordinary capacities to the highest goals of the nation's communications services.

"The commission is deeply saddened by her passing, which in a tragic and untimely way has removed from the scene a truly valiant spirit."

Miss Hennock, the only woman ever to be a member of the FCC, served as commissioner under an appointment by President Truman from 1948-55. She married William H. Simons, Washington real estate man, in 1956 and had practiced law since leaving the FCC.

In 1951, President Truman nominated Miss Hennock to a New York federal district judgeship. The appointment was opposed, however, by the state bar association and she asked that it be withdrawn.
